An Arizona Outlaw Javelina Tour 2011 Album by Karen Sue Wroughton - photos by Barb Crowley

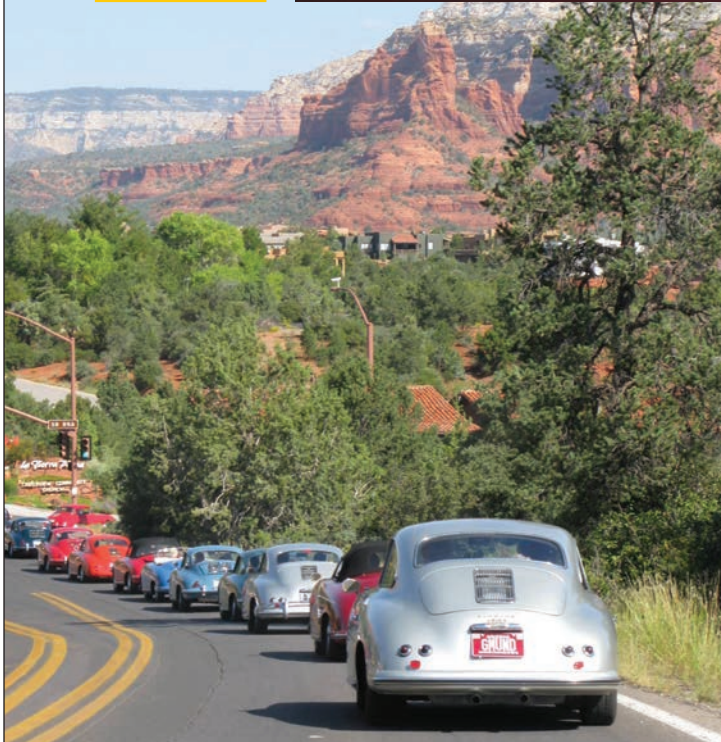

Picture this: Wine, cheese, crackers, and grapes as Outlaws gaze out the windows of a suite at Sedona's Sky Ranch Lodge. They overlook the lights of Sedona as molten pink and red sunset rays pierce the mists collecting in the canyons and rain gently cools the evening air.

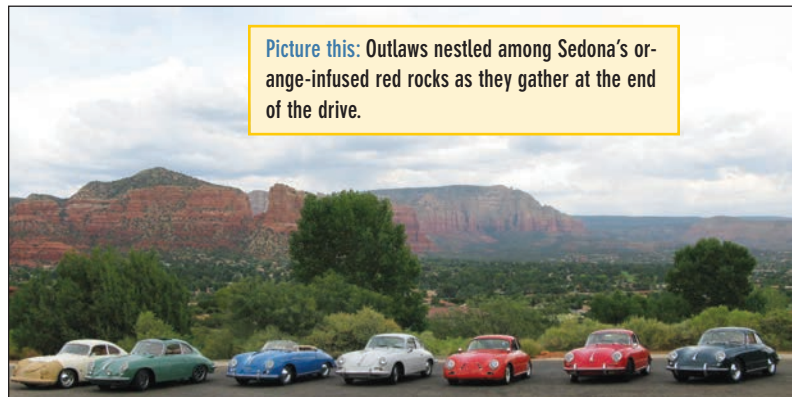

Picture this: A cavalcade of 356s creating a rainbow heading out: the red-hued rocks, robin blue sky, cotton-white clouds and crisp morning air encompassing the eager drivers.

Picture this: Smoke-gray and marshmallow clouds intermingle above us as Outlaws travel down a winding pine corridor to Page Springs Hatchery, where troughs of dark water flash with prisms of trout. The aptly named Javelina Leap Winery adjacent to the hatchery tempts a few thirsty Outlaws.

Picture this: Lingering ghosts of cowboys, dancing and laughter resonating through the rafters as hungry Outlaws chow down in an old wooden dining hall, adding more memories to the Zane Grey surroundings.

Picture this: Outlaws nestled among Sedona's orange-infused red rocks as they gather at the end of the drive.

Picture this: The 356s snaked their way up Oak Creek Canyon, winding through the leafy green foliage, easily executing the turns.

Picture this: The murmur of conversations punctuated with shots of laughter and fueled with "darn good grub" drift through the cooling afternoon. The coveted "Whining Swine" and "Hard Luck Outlaw" awards end the day. The enveloping dusk closes the 2011 Javelina.
